Hunter International: Hunter International Travel Award

Dr. Melvin "Hunter" Hunt International Travel Award

Objective

1. Dr. Melvin "Hunter" Hunt was a long-time AMSA member and a leader in the meat science community during his distinguished career at Kansas State University. Hunter's reputation as a top meat color researcher is well-known throughout the world and his service to the meat industry spans a career of teaching, mentoring, and research. He is the primary author of the first version of the Guidelines for Meat Color. The Hunter International Travel Award is a non-tuition scholarship intended to support the efforts of meat science graduate students in communicating their research results at international meetings like ICoMST or other similar researched-based conferences.

Eligibility

Interested students who are members or are becoming members of AMSA are encouraged to apply. Competitive applicants will be M.S. or Ph.D. students who have: (1) completed at least one year of graduate study in a M.S. program or two years of a Ph.D. program on meat color research, and (2) are presenting their research at an international meeting.

Nature of the award

One award will be presented this year. The award consists of a cash payment of $2,500. The recipient will be required to provide a follow-up report that details how the funds were used and their experiences.

Materials to apply

1. Statement of Interest - The student shall write a statement of interest no more than 1 page describing his/her research on meat color
2. Itinerary (include at least the dates, locations, and any side trips)
3. Any additional items (if applicable)

Submitting Application

Students must apply to each scholarship individually, to ensure students are eligible for the specific award.
Application materials should be combined into one PDF file titled "Name of Nominee_Name of Scholarship", which should also be included in the email subject line. Applications will be submitted to AMSA Staff at information@meatscience.org. You will receive a confirmation email to verify the application was received.

Contact:

If you have questions or need additional information on the program, contact AMSA Staff at information@meatscience.org.